10,000 Rise to Cheer Texas Cowboy For Unscheduled Act at Stock Show

Chicago, Nov. 30—(AP)—Ten thousand persons stood and cheered a 48-year-old Texas stockman last night for his heroic role in an unscheduled event at the horse show at the International Livestock Exposition.

A few minutes before the crowd gave an ovation to Lloyd Jinkers of Fort Worth, Tex., an 800-pound steer leaped a 5-foot fence into the massed spectators at the show.

There were screams of terror from among the crowd.

Jinkens, cattle breeder and quarter horse exhibitor, spurred his horse to the fence, cleared it with a leap from the saddle, bull-dogged the animal and led it back into the arena.

Police Capt. Frank Reynolds said that Jinkens' action was the most heroic he ever had seen. He said that the steer running amuck among the huge crowd might have trampled many.

Jinkens was aboard his horse awaiting his turn for an exhibition of how a cowboy and a quarter horse "cuts out" a steer, when Jack Hart of Marshall, Tex., made a pass at the steer.

The steer shied, ran for the fence and cleared it at a bound, into the space between the wall and the stands where spectators crowd to watch the exhibition.

Jinkens sized up the situation immediately. He raced his horse to the wall, and he leaped from the saddle over the wall and onto the steer. He thrust his fingers into the animal's eyes, hung around its neck and brought it to its knees.

"Then I crashed it into the fence a couple of times to stun it," Jinkens said, "and guided it through a nearby gate into the show ring."

Asked if he was frightened, Jinkens said:

"I've been around cattle and horses all my life. I wasn't scared because I've been in a lot tougher spots—down under a Brahma bull, for instance, with nowhere to roll. But any real cowboy would have done the same."

Strike Developments in Brief! Sec. Tobin Begins Drive on Curbs

(By the Associated Press)

Shipping operations along the eastern Atlantic coast appeared headed back to normal today as the railroad freight embargo was lifted in eight cities. But the lull in waterfront business along the west coast for the last three months due to strikes continued.

The embargo on freight intended for export or coastwise movement was lifted by the Association of American Railroads in eight ports—New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Hampton Roads, Va., Wilmington, Del., Port Newark, N. J., and Portland, Me.

Most of the 65,000 AFL Longshoremen on strike for 18 days at east coast ports from Maine to Virginia returned to work yesterday after approving a wage increase of 13 cents an hour for day work and 19½ cents for night and holiday work. About 250 ships had been tied up in New York.

Only one of the four unions in the Pacific coast maritime strike, the CIO Longshoremen, have ratified a new contract. The other three seagoing unions have not reached agreement with employers. A fourth union is involved in a jurisdictional dispute.

Agreements Not Reached

Agreements still have not been reached between Pacific American Shipowners association and the three striking unions, the Independent Marine Firemen, the CIO Marine Cooks and the CIO Radio Operators. The AFL Sailors union of the Pacific, not on strike but made idle by the shipping tie-up, has insisted it be guaranteed jurisdiction over certain jobs and be granted certain wage increase before members return to work.

In another labor development, members of a New York Teamsters union local who returned to their jobs yesterday after a week-long strike, have voted to accept a straight pay raise of 22½ cents an hour. The strike by the local, which claims 3,500 members, had tied up about one third of the city's general trucking business.

SEC. TOBIN OPENS DRIVE

Washington, Nov. 30—(AP)—Secretary of Labor Tobin today opened an administration drive against a "tide of anti-labor legislation" in the states.

He told delegates to the 15th annual conference of state labor commissioners that some state laws are "worse than Taft-Hartley," and he urged them to unite in a campaign for "sound labor standards."

While Tobin was opening the three-day session his aides were

Army Throws Party for First Colorado Inductees Last Eve

Denver, Nov. 30—(AP)—Colorado's first postwar draftees pinched themselves and wondered if this is the Army.

The Army threw them a swank party last night. It made them Cinderella generals. Tough old sergeants jumped at their commands. The brass looked on and smiled.

There were dates and bands and songs and comedy. And there was food that never graced a wartime chow line.

When it was all over, they went back to warm hotel rooms instead of the cold tents of wartime induction centers. But today, they head for Fort Ord, Calif., and the realities of basic training.

The party was all a part of the Army plan to prove there's a new look in soldiering. But it still was by the numbers. The 22-page script for the affair was big enough to swallow a D-day field order.

As one inductee put it, "we weren't exactly invited. We weren't exactly ordered. They told us very nicely that we had to go. It was all part of the things we had to do the day we were inducted."

Little Hurry-Up-and-Wait

There was a little of the old hurry-up-and-wait. The group was told to be on hand at 7 p. m. The party got underway 35 minutes later.

A sergeant lined them up and paired them off with their dates. USO and YWCA hostesses in formal gowns. Sixty-one men were slated for induction but six were turned down at the last moment. Nobody remembered to tell the girls so there were six spares.

The couples marched in. The program called it a "grand march x x x a slow stately march to left of dignitary guests table down center aisle in a column of twos up to the stage and from there to their designated tables."

St. Louis, No. 30—(AP)—Seeing is believing with John Park Cravens, a justice of the peace at Magazine, Ark. He recognized a bargain in the St. Louis Distillery's advertisement of "four quarts of seven-year-old rye whisky for $3.20" and sent along an order.

When he got no results, he wrote Mayor Kaufman. City hall officials sadly informed the mayor who passed the word along to Cravens that both the distillery and the magazine in which it advertised have long since been out of business. The advertisement, which Cravens enclosed in his letter of complaint, was 48 years old.

German Communists, who act at Russia's pleasure, set up today a seperate "government" for blockaded Berlin. It is opposed to the elected, anti-Communist government which will hold elections in western Berlin Sunday despite Communist and Russian boycotts.

The Communist action virtually completed the division of the city just when hope arose for a solution in the United Nations of a blockade the Russians imposed last June.

The Reds set up their "government" at a rally called for what was termed "decisive measures for the protection of a United Berlin." They elected their own mayor, Friedrich Ebert, 54, namesake son of the first German president under the Weimar republic. Then they elected a migstrate for the city giving places to men long since disowned by other parties.

Argentine Foreign Minister Juan Bramuglia got Russian acceptance to a compromise Berlin plan providing for a neutral commission of experts to handle technical and procedural phases of the conflict. The blockade itself and Russian insistence that only Soviet-backed currency circulate in Berlin are the main issues. The western powers accepted in principle.

Vain Effort to Aid Blind Woman Fatal

Miami, Fla., Nov. 30—(AP)—A Miami railroad flagman died today from injuries suffered when he made a futile attempt to save an aged blind woman who walked into the path of a freight train.

In his rescue effort, William Marshall Weaver, 45, lost both feet when he slipped beneath the wheels of a boxcar.

The blind woman, Mrs. Wilhelmina R. Wittigschlager, 87, was killed yesterday when she apparently failed to hear a train whistle. She walked across a street crossing into the path of the slow-moving freight train.

Weaver, who was riding on the back of the train, saw the woman as she started across the tracks. He ran after her and made an attempt to pull her to safety, but both slipped beneath the wheels of the train. The woman was decapitated and the car ran over Weaver's feet.

Miss Merry Christmas and Miss Happy New Year will be chosen from a Dixon organization of young ladies and will be announced later. At least 50 Dixon high school boys will be used in the parade and will be provided with costumes. Any boy desiring to participate is requested to register at once with Miss Frances Patrick at the Chamber of Commerce offices.

The Dixon state hospital band will participate in the parade and the committee is attempting to secure the appearance of the high school band on this occasion. After the parade, Santa Claus and his staff will go direct to the state hospital to attend a reception arranged in his honor by the younger patient groups.

American to Pick Grand Champion

Chicago, Nov. 30—(AP)—For the first time since the start of the International Livestock Exposition in 1900, an American today will have the honor of selecting the grand champion steer.

Dr. A. D. Webber, of Kansas State college, Manhattan, Kan., a judging expert of long experience, will select the finest animal at the 49th exposition. Previously leading cattlemen from abroad have been called to Chicago to make the final selection.

Show officials said that it is a belief among cattlemen today that, world feeding conditions being what they are, only the United States beef raisers are familiar with the highest type of fatted cattle.

Selection of the grand champion steer is the outstanding event of the week long show, now in its fourth day. Several breed champions were named yesterday.

Jay Farceur, 2nd, an entry by C. O. House of Arcadia, Ind., was named grand champion Belgian stallion.

In the International Hay and Grain show a father and son combination—Newton Halterman, and his son, Lair, 12, of Rushville, Ind., were named respectively, "Corn King" and "Corn Prince." Both won with Indiana 844-D yellow corn.

TODAY'S WEATHER STORY

Chicago, Nov 30 —(AP)— colder weather moved into the flooded areas of the southland today, adding further discomfort to the many made homeless by rain-flooded rivers.

Skies were mostly clear over the flood regions of Georgia, Alabama and Tennessee but temperatures in parts of those and other southern states dropped. Readings in the 20's were reported in parts of Alabama, Georgia and Tennessee, while Vicksburg, Miss., had a low of 28 today.

No heavy rain was forecast in the south as river flood crests moved downstream, carrying the threat to middle and southern portions of Georgia and to southern Alabama. Flood waters poured over thousands of acres of lowland in South Carolina.

Across the country, generally, fair and colder weather prevailed today. The mercury dipped to near the zero mark in some parts of the country's coldest belt, which extended from the Rockies over the north central region. Low marks included 3 above at Butte, Mont. and Eagle, Colo. There was some light snow in northern Minnesota.

A power shortage developed in Georgia due to the flood waters and mechanical failures. In Macon, Ga., the swollen Ocmulgee river disrupted operation of five of the city's 10 pumping station filters and industries were ordered to halt using water. The Ocmulgee reached a record 28 feet and many families were evacuated.

A state-wide appeal was made by the Georgia Power Company for its users to curtail electric consumption. Gasoline busses were substituted for electdic-powered trackless trolleys in Atlanta.

Here It Is! Spirit of Christmas Calls Dixon's Goodfellows

Annual Movement To Disseminate Happiness, Comfort Under Way

Once again the time is here when you can make your own Christmas happier by joining the Goodfellow club and helping to bring some happiness into other homes.

You would probably be greatly surprised to learn how many little boys and girls, even here in prosperous Dixon, will have no visit from Santa Claus unless you and other warm-hearted people like you, will dig down into your pockets for a donation to the Evening Telegraph's annual Goodfellow Club campaign.

Time is short and right now the Goodfellow Club is seeking the names, ages and addresses of every boy and girl in Dixon 12 years of age or younger, who will need Goodfellow help to have any Christmas happiness. We must have the name, age, sex, name of parents or parent, and all possible information.

Each Case Checked

Each name will be checked and the urgency of need determined. Miss Gertrude Wilhelm, Dixon school nurse, will again be active in an advisory capacity where

Would-Be Suicide Enjoined by Court

Chicago, Nov. 30—(AP) — A Circuit court order bans Frank Lewandowski, 36, from attempting suicide.

The injunction was issued after his estranged wife, Adeleine, 36, said Lewandowski has tried to kill himself 30 times since they were married nine years ago.

Mrs. Lewandowski, mother of three minor children, testified her husband, a solderer, attempted to hang himself three times; stabbed himself six times, turned on the gas six times, and drank poison 15 times.

Her attorney told Judge Julius H. Miner all the attempts had made Mrs. Lewandowski "highly nervous." He added, "We think it was all a bluff x x x But we want him to stop."

Judge Miner issued the injunction yesterday and also ordered Lewandowski to pay his wife $30 a week for temporary support. She has a separate maintenance suit pending.

Shortage of Funds Causes Army's Cut in Next Draft Call

Washington, Nov. 30 (AP)—The army today cut in half its proposed anuary draft call for 20,000 men. Lack of money was given as the reason.

At the same time, the Army announced the February call would be for only 5,000 men.

"The reductions were necessitated by the limitation of the military budget for fiscal 1950 to $15,000,000,000 of which $600,000,000 are for stock-piling of strategic raw materials", the national military establishment said in a statement announcing the Army plans.

The new draft calls are far below the 30,000 a month average which Army Secretary Royall estimated last June when plans were beinb made for the peacetime draft.

Army Only Requisitioned

The first call for November was 10,000 and the December call 15,000.

The announcement said that neither the Navy nor Air Force has requested any inductions under the Selective Service Act.

The present strength of the Army is about 615,000.

The last congress authorized a total of 837,000 men for the Army, not including 110,000 19-year-old volunteers who would enlist for one year. However, Royall said last summer that funds appropriated by congress for defense would allow only a 790,000 man Army by next June.

President Truman set the $23,000,000,000 in the 1950 fiscal year beginning July 1.

Early Mailing of Christmas Matter Essential for All

Acting Postmaster Rae A. Arnould today appealed to local residents to plan to mail all Christmas greeting cards and gift packages "just as early in December as possible."

An even heavier flood of Yuletide mail is expected this Christmas than during the record-breaking 1947 holiday season, when the local post office cancelled 750,000 pieces of mail.

"If you postpone mailing to the last minute this year," the Postmaster warned, "you risk disappointing your friends. Your holiday messages and gifts may be caught in the rush and perhaps not delivered until after Christmas."

All packages should be mailed before December 10 to assure delivery before Christmas Day, he said. Christmas cards for out-of-State delivery also should be mailed by December 10 and cards for local addresses should be in the collection boxes at least a week before December 25.

Early Christmas mailing is extremely vital, the Postmaster said, because handling the Christmas mail load is divided into three phases. First, the mail for out-of-town must be collected and dispatched by rail and air. Then, delivery of Yuletide greetings being exchanged locally becomes the big job. Finally, there is the last-minute flood of cards and packages from out-of-town to be handled.

MacArthur Stays Their Execution After Two Defendants Appeal

Tokyo, Nov. 30—(AP) — Wartime Premier Hideki Tojo and six other top Japanese warmakers won an eleventh hour respite today from the hangman's noose.

General Douglas MacArthur said they would "certainly not" be executed until the Supreme court of the United States has acted on appeals by two of the condemned men.

The next scheduled meeting of the Supreme court is December 6.

If the Supreme court rejects the appeal next Monday, as it did a similar petition by German war criminals, Japan's warmakers could be hanged Dec. 7 on the seventh anniversary of Pearl Harbor.)

The appeals from the international military tribunal's verdict were filed in Washington yesterday in behalf of former Premier Koki Hirota, who helped plot Japan's pre-Pearl Harbor war plans, and Gen. Kenji Doihara, known to the Chinese as the "Bird of Evil Omen."

The Associated Press asked the Supreme Allied Command whether General MacArthur would "recognize the appeal and order the execution of these two men delayed or whether he will ignore the appeal."

This brought the following statement from MacArthur's public information office:

Categorical Reply

"In reply to a query from the press as to whether the condemned Japanese war criminals would be executed before action could be taken on appeal to the Supreme court of the United States, General MacArthur categorically replied 'certainly not.'"

Later the public information office said this applied to all seven major war makers, although only two appealed.

Despite the delay, MacArthur's press officers announced they would continue their 24-hour death watch. Presumably the watch would be to handle news of suicide attempts, or similar developments.

The Japanese continued to prepare for the death of the seven. Tojo and the six others all took the same Buddhist name to identify their spirits in the after world. Roughly translated the name means "Eternal Life".

Usually names for the after-world are assigned by a Buddhist priest after death. But their death seems so certain they chose their own. Defense Attorney Ichiro Kiyose explained that because of their prominence they were privileged to adopt deceased names of the highest class.

Marshall and Austin Revealed in Hospital

Washington, Nov. 30—(AP)—Secretary of State Marshall is in Walter Reed hospital for "tests and examinations", it was disclosed today. Warren Austin, U. S. delegate to the United Nations, also is a patient there and underwent an operation this morning.

Marshall and Austin each returned recently from the Paris U. N. meeting. In their absence, John Foster Dulles, a Republican, is acting head of the United States delegation.

Michael J. McDermott, state department press officer, announced that Marshall is in Walter Reed, but was unable to say whether the secretary of state is suffering any serious ailment.

Seek Names of One-Time Dixon Youths

The special "Sons of Dixon" committee of the Chamber of Commerce has a list of more than 50 names of former Dixon young men who have made good in the business world, and who are to be invited to attend the "Sons of Dixon" testimonial reception and banquet to be held Feb. 22nd. Many of these names have been handed to Miss Frances E. Patrick, secretary, and are without addresses.

President Harold Cook today requested that any citizen knowing of some Dixon youth who has left the city and become successful in some field, register the name and address with Miss Patrick at the Chamber offices. First announcement of the event will be mailed out to more than 50 prospective guests within a few days.

Two Persons—One a Grandmother, One a Boy—Die on Trip to Santa

Macomb, Ill., Nov. 30—(AP)—A three-year-old boy and a grandmother, both enroute to witness a Santa Claus parade in Macomb, were killed in traffic accidents yesterday.

Robert Bohanan, a farmer of nearby Ipava, and father of the boy, gave this account of the accidents:

While driving to Macomb with his wife, Beulah, and two of their children, their son, Jackie Lee, 3, fell from the car and landed on the highway in the path of an oncoming truck.

Doctors said later the boy died instantly of a crushed skull caused either by the fall or the truck. However, Bohanan, believing his son was still alive, rushed him to a Macomb hospital.

On the way, his car collided with another at a city intersection. The crash fatally injured Mrs. Goldie Gruber, 57, of Macomb, and injured two other occupants of the second car, Mrs. John Way, the driver, and Mrs. Gruber's grandson, Eddie Graham. Mrs. Way received a severe head cut and Eddie a brain concussion.

Bohanan, his wife and their 16-months-old daughter, Jean Jo, were uninjured. Two other sons, Bob and Jim, were in Ipava when the accident occurred.

Bohanan was not held.

Power Sprayer for Farm Use Is Urged

Urbana —"A power sprayer on the Illinois farm to control insects can be a paying proposition," believes H B Petty entomologist, University of Illinois College of Agriculture and Natural History Survey. The uses of a good machine are many from treating livestock to control insect pests to bringing under control the various insects that damage crops.

To some persons a sprayer may be considered a questionable investment but a machine that is used efficiently will establish itself as an important asset to the equipment of the farm.

Two types of sprayers are available. One is a high-gallonage standard machine that delivers many gallons per acre and at high pressure. The other is a concentrate sprayer that delivers five gallons or so of a fine spray mixture per acre and at relatively low pressure. There are many variations of these two types.

High pressure machines have tanks ranging from 100 to 600 gallons in capacity and the low pressure sprayers usually have a capacity of about 50 gallons. The 50 gallon tanks are sufficient to cover about 10 acres of crops.

"Sprayers find a good use in treating livestock or insect pests," Petty adds. "They can be used to control flies and fleas around the farm buildings and to control lice and mange on animals."

Good power sprayers can also be used to control grasshoppers and European corn borers.

Herman Albers two Shorthorn steers were not eliminated from the junior feeding contest by the ... as there were ... on Thanksgiving ... the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago. Last Saturday, "Shorty," the steer that Herman has shown very successfully in this area, was awarded the championship of his age class. In the afternoon he was shown with the champion and reserve champion of an older class of Shorthorns and again was placed first. In competition with the Hereford and Angus champions and reserve champions Dr. A. D. Weber of Kansas State college, judge, awarded the junior steer championship of all breeds to Bob Schmidt of Delmar, Ia. Herman's steer "Shorty" was in competition with and occupied a stall next to the steer exhibited by Claude Millwees 1948 steer. Claude's 1947 steer was the grand champion of the entire International Livestock Exposition last year.

The feeding and showing of the grand champion steer of all Shorthorn classes in the junior feeding contest is one that is sought by many FFA exhibitors but seldom accomplished. Herman is a senior student in one of the vocational agriculture classes taught by George F. Reed at Dixon high school.

Southern Senator Out to Raise Cain

Washington, Nov. 30 (AP) Senator Hill (D-Ala) warned the nation's military chiefs today he intends to raise Cain until there is real unification of the armed forces."

As a member of the senate armed services committee Hill said he will demand in the next congress that the Army, Navy and Air Force put aside their petty fighting for the country's good.

In an interview before leaving for Alabama the senator said

"The time has come for Secretary of Defense Forrestal to knock some heads together or if need be to knock some heads off to carry out the intentions of the law passed by congress to give us unification in fact and not in fancy."

Quit Claim Deed — If there is any truth in the story that some gullible person frequently "buys" the Brooklyn bridge, he most likely takes a quit claim deed from his seller. True enough the seller has no financial interest in the bridge and is probably guilty of fraud and a number of other offenses, but so far as the deed is concerned, it gives the purchaser exactly what the deed states he bargained for — "any right title or interest possessed by the seller in the object sold. In the Brooklyn bridge case, the seller has no "right title or interest" but that is oftentimes true in cases where quit claim deeds are used.

Obviously, when a person buys a property, he does not want a quit claim deed but a warranty deed. A quit claim deed conveys a clear title only when the person giving it possesses all the right title and interest in the property conveyed. A number of quit claim deeds to one person having an interest can give a clear title of course. As a matter of fact titles to property are frequently cleared by having all persons who may have even a remote interest in the property execute quit claim deeds.

In order that the effect of such deeds may be clearly understood the Illinois legislature in 1872 passed a law providing that

Quit claim deeds may be in substance in the following form:

The grantor (here insert grantor's name or names and place of residence), for the consideration of (here insert consideration), convey and quit claim to (here insert grantee's name or names) all interest in the following described real estate (here insert description) situated in the county of

The law further provides that every deed substantially in this form when duly executed, shall be a sufficient "conveyance release and quit claim" of all existing rights in the premises described. Illinois Leads U.S. in Production of Good Corn Product

Urbana-Champaign Ill. — Illinois leads the nation in the production of refined corn products particularly corn starch and its derivatives, the University of Illinois Bureau of Economic and Business Research reported today.

Corn refining is the branch of corn processing which yields starch, sirup, sugar, feeds, and oil. It is known as "wet-milling" because water is used in large quantities throughout the process. Food mixers and dry millers are found wherever corn is grown, but wet millers are few and are confined to the Corn Belt.

The plant at Argo is the nation's largest corn refining enterprise with a capacity of 60,000,000 bushels. Of the 12 other such plants in the nation three are in Illinois at Pekin, Decatur, and Granite City. Early in the century there were corn refining plants at Danville, Waukegan, Chicago, Peoria, Geneva, Venice and Rockford. All of these were abandoned or razed as the industry consolodated.

Starch is the basic food for both human and animal consumption. Since corn is almost 80 per cent starch it is by far the greatest native source of this substance. Despite its food value, however, three fourths of all the cornstarch produced today is used in manufacturing.

Thirty years ago over 40 per cent of all the corn grown in the United States was white corn.

"Z" 10% POWER INCREASE SETS A NEW HIGH IN PERFORMANCE

Increased piston displacement and design improvements of the new 206B-4 engine now offer you more operating power and draw bar and belt jobs. If plenty of reserve power and dependability for the hard going are of increased importance to you, notice these advanced design features. Investigate! You'll agree that the new "Z" has the toughest jobs licked before they're started. New three bearing crankshaft operates on anti-friction roller and precision babbitt main bearings. New "tri-metal" connecting rod bearings with even greater load capacity. New pressure lubrication system provides a still more effective means of reducing engine wear by furnishing the oil 90° before the power stroke.

Recognize the improved MM "Z" by the clean lines, compactness and visionlined design. Buy it for a more powerful engine—a new improved range of field speeds and many easy operating features that include MM Uni-Matic tool control.

Digest of the News for Poultry Raisers

A Weekly Letter by Frank Priebe

"If you have turkey for Thanksgiving, it s going to cost you a lot of money." That's the story people read in the newspapers. It's the story they heard over the radio

But apparently they had the money.

At any rate, they went to the stores and bought all the turkeys that were for sale.

Wholesalers and retailers had bought cautiously. As I told you last week, nobody was sure whether people would pay the price or not. I heard any number of butchers say, "I have orders for so many turkeys. And that's all I'm going to buy. At these prices, I'd only have to be stuck with one bird to lose all I'd make on the others '

Most stores were sold out the day before Thanksgiving. Certainly anyone who waited until then to shop for a turkey had a hard time finding one

Demand Broad-Breasted Birds

Buyers were not only cautious They were particular.

I was in one wholesale house where they had a few boxes of razor-breasted birds. A few years ago we would have considered them fine turkeys. But buyer after buyer turned them down "People just won't take that kind of a turkey any more They insist on broad-breasted birds"

Most of us can remember when broad-breasted turkeys were a novelty. Today they're a necessity—if you want a good price for the turkeys you raise.

Market in Good Shape

We knew, of course, that the turkey crop this year was short.

But I don't think any of us realized how many of the turkeys had been sold before Thanksgiving. We didn't expect the Thanksgiving market to be quite as short as it was.

We know a lot of poultry was started late. So I've been assuming——along with a lot of other people—that those late poults couldn't have been ready for the Thanksgiving market. But now I'm not so sure. I'm beginning to wonder if there are many flocks left in the country.

If there aren't, we're going to see even higher prices at Christmas.

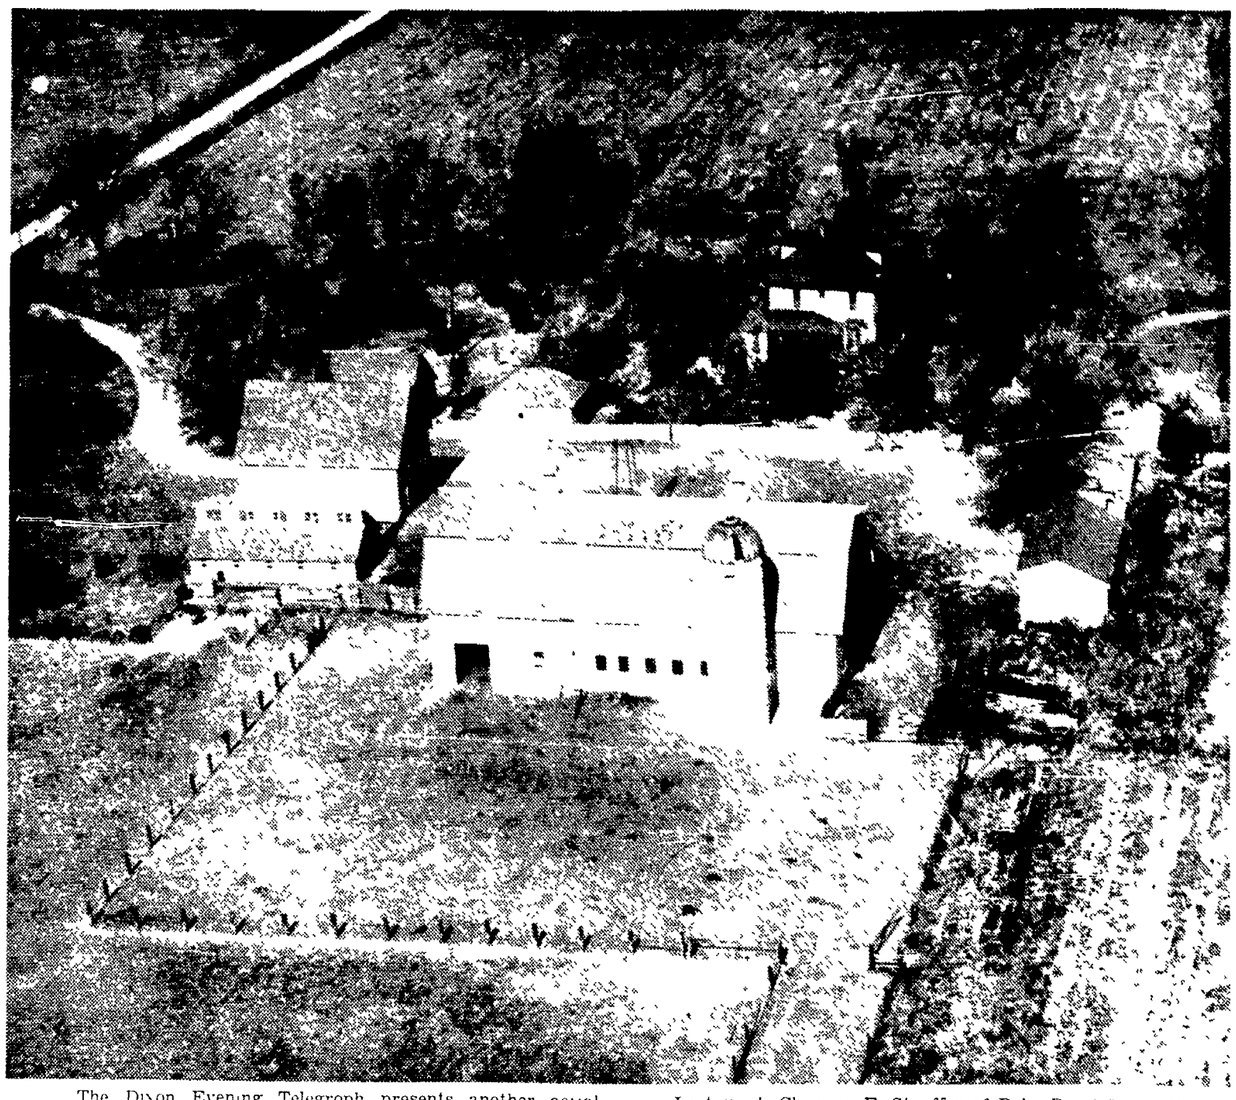

The advance in the turkey market just before Thanksgiving helped the market for all other kinds of poultry.

And the fact that the stocks of poultry "cleaned up," that nobody along the line has poultry on hand that he couldn't sell, indicates clear sailing ahead.

The market for all kinds of poultry is in good shape.

October and November are the months to make full applications of nitrogen fertilizers in the orchard.

CAN YOU IDENTIFY THIS FARM?

The Dixon Evening Telegraph presents another aerial photo in its series, "Can You Identify This Farm" If the occupant of this farm will call at the photographic department of the Telegraph and identify the aerial picture he will be given an 8x10 photograph free of charge.

Last week Clarence E Stauffer of Polo, Rural Route No 3, identified the picture of his home. Mr. Stauffer lives five and one half miles southwest of Polo. The farm is owned by Bert Stauffer

Pollorum Disease Was Top Killer of Turkey Poults

Urbana —Pullorum disease was public enemy No 1 to the 1947 flocks of Illinois turkey poults, according to Dr. J. E. Prier, University of Illinois College of Veterinary Medecine.

Figures obtained from a limited number of turkey flocks and laboratory diagnostic reports indicate that most of the turkey poults that died in 1947 from disease were killed by pullorum. This high number of deaths was due to the use of eggs from pullorum-infected flocks for hatching purposes. Doctor Prier said.

The next worst killer of turkey poults was nutritional diseases Rickets was common, and often it was corrected by feeding cod liver oil or similar vitamin D-containing supplements, he said Other deficiencies included vitamin B and minerals Perosis, or slipped tendons, occurred in some flocks.

Other diseases that killed poults were respiratory disease, histomoniasis, coccidiosis and paratyphoid. Paratyphoid was believed to have been more prevalent than the number of observed outbreaks indicated

Losses from paratyphoid generally occurred in birds about the second week of age. When good management was practiced, the deaths decreased. Like pullorum, paratyphoid can be carried through the egg, the source of disease being the breeding flock, Doctor Prier said

Preventive measures against turkey-poult diseases are disease-free breeders house and range sanitation, clean equipment and early diagnosis by a veterinarian or a qualified laboratory.

The one practice in apple orchard sanitation that helps most in controlling codling moth is removing rough bark by spraying

The estimated production of milk for 1948 is 117 5 billion pounds.

Boyle's Column-- Confession of Health Fan--

By HAL BOYLE

New York—(AP)—How to be healthy all over—instead of being unhealthy in one place at a time?

I have finally solved this problem The answer is to find a group of hypochondriacs. Then do what they do.

Hypochondriacs are people who imagine they have illnesses—any or all illnesses And they are all around you. There are more hypochondriacs in America than there are Republicans

Before I began consulting hypochondriacs I never knew what real health was I made vague, unguided solo attempts to keep fit and well.

I read so many books on how to make the best of my physical birthright that finally I had to wear glasses for eyestrain. I took icy morning showers to make me more rugged. All I caught was cold. I took to lifting barrels for exercise. What happened? I had to take a day off each week to rest up.

* * *

This was getting me nowhere. I was wornout, rundown and sleepless from trying to stay healthy.

Then I met my first hypochondriac, a man with the mistaken idea he had a bad heart. He almost fainted when I told him I was lifting barrels.

"Don't you know exercise kills more people than motor cars?" he said.

I quit exercising. Immediately the tired feeling went away.

Another day I complained of a stomach pain to an office friend who thought he had an ulcer.

"Better stick to milk," he said. I went down, had a glass of milk and came back up still hungry. I bumped into a skinny hypochondriac.

"You need more nourishment," he said

I went down and had a hamburger, and came back up again feeling better. But a vegetarian hypochondriac was horrified.

"Meat fills a multitude of graves," he remarked ominously.

So back down I went a third time and ate a combination salad, two radishes, a glass of orange juice, a banana split, and a sack of salted peanuts The stomach pains were all gone I felt fine.

It was then I got the idea that hypochondriacs know more about health than anybody Not just one but all of them together You have to pool all their individual knowledge

That's what I do now. I go around and take a pill with each hypochondriac for what ails him, and do what his physician told him to do.

I carefully follow each hypochondriac's diet all at the same time I eat lettuce and carrots with the boys who want to lose weight, burrow through beefsteaks with the ones who want to stay slim I have a glass of beer with the fellow whose doctor says he can drink but must avoid tobacco, I accept a cigar from a gent who can smoke but can't have any alcohol.

* * *

Once every week I play poker or go to a nightclub with insomniacs Other evenings I go to bed early, because some pseudo-sick friends have been told by their doctors that civilized man's greatest need is more sleep.

Today I never felt better in my life My chest expansion has increased two inches, my waist four. I havn't had an honest ache or pain mine are all borrowed in years I wear arch supporters to keep me from getting flat feet, and I am full of more vitamins than a drugstore I don't even know my own strength

And I owe all this health to a bunch of melancholy hypochondriacs They'd probably be healthy and happy, too, if they'd quit worrying about one disease at a time and worry about them all once, as I do.

Right now I'm in the market for a hypochondriac who's afraid he's on the verge of a nervous breakdown I could use a good vacation in Florida myself.

A Thought for Today

But if ye have bitter envying and strife in your hearts glory not, and lie not against the truth.—James 3 14

* * *

There is not a passion so strongly rooted in the human heart as envy

—Sheridan

Speed-Up for Socialism

According to an expert live observer of the national scene "Fullest commitments for public power possible before the end of the year is still the speed-up objective of the Reclamation Bureau." Other agencies within and without the government whose goal is the socialization of the electric industry are following a similar policy.

The reason why these groups want to force socialism down the throats of the people with the least possible delay is clear Polls indicate that public sentiment in favor of destroying the heavily-taxed, publicly regulated utility industry and replacing it with a tax-free, unregulated tax-subsidized political monopoly has been declining Congress in the last session, was nowhere near as friendly to the public-power zealots as it had been in the past It is believed that future congresses may be still more cautious about approving the enormously costly measures for socialized power Thus, the campaign is underway to get the job done before it is too late.

The American people, of course, will be the real losers if that campaign succeeds They will lose financially, in the billions of tax dollars that will be spent More important still, they will lose through the establishment of a precedent which is squarely in line with totalitarian principles If the government should provide our electricity, government should also provide our food and our clothing and everything else No country can long maintain a system which is part socialism and part free enterprise

Thus, the electric power issue directly affects the American tradition. If the socialists have their way, we can start saving goodby to freedom.

Your Chance of Fire Loss

This year, according to the president of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, fire will enter one out of every 100 American homes In those homes, it will kill thousands of people at least 2 400 of them children And it will leave a ghastly toll of ruin and waste behind it

If you happen to be one of the lucky ones whose home escapes fire you may think its no problem of yours You'll be dead wrong The burden of paying for fire falls on all of us A fire which destroys a great forest or a producing factory makes every American poorer in loss of taxes jobs, purchasing power, and national resources Fire is the enemy of employment production and a high standard of living for the people

Every American as a result, has a direct and personal interest in fire prevention His life and his home and his business are at stake And so, going beyond purely personal considerations is the economic health and prosperity of the community and the country The billions that go up in smoke and flame are lost to us forever—and so are the lives of those who are burned to death

Soon we will be in a new year It can be a year in which loss of life and property by fire is cut to a fraction of past totals Or it can be a year in which, because of our carelessness and indifference, destruction rages on. It is up to us to make the choice.

As Pegler Sees It

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Eugene Lyons, a professional brand from the burning, has come up with the idea of organizing a society of Red baiters. This might have been all right for purposes of discussion, but then he had to get grim and start talking about the good that such an organization might do If I have any bigotry in my juices it is a rancid abhorrence of people who coldbloodedly set out to do unprovoked good to other people because all the immoral malevolents who set our nation to hating in 1929 and have kept us at a kicking boil thereafter were do-goods. They are a breed conceived in malice and dedicated to the proposition that government is a curse They thrive in troublous times on frightened souls and just as the parson and the cop would find themselves professionally obsolete in a world of total peace and piety, they must have woe to feed upon or die.

I refer you to the rooster of hot-eyed provocators who have called themselves reformers in our time and put it to you whether men of good will would intentionally sign up with any new lodge consecrated to the purposes which they professed In our country I have watched them all from Bishop Cannon who put poison in our hooch in God's name to Henry Wallace waving fagots for the purifying fires and I have yet to find one whose love of virtue and pity for the poor and ailing was comparable in voltage to his voluptuous hatred I might say that there have been a few complaints along this line regarding my own work upon the rogues of social uplift and unionism, but only from the ill-informed

* * *

Any person who has ever looked to me for good works has only himself to blame for my motives always have been obviously retributive, not idealistic, and any good I may have wrought has been purely coincidental I think I may say that I have little to answer for

Lyons is a back-slid bolo of the early New York crop who went to Moscow for the United Press and came hurrying home yelling that the Bolsheviks those dirty dogs, were given to impure speech and committed to holocaust He wrote an expose called "Assignment in Utopia," which has become a library book for cosmic oracles, and another called "The Red Decade," likewise reliable for reference but not privileged matter like the invaluable five-foot shelf of the Dies and Thomas committees of congress His acquaintance among the New York and Washington Communists was extensive and his hatred of his old comrades purifies and renews itself as he pursues his career and they pursue him It is a droll paradox that the Messrs Lyons Ben Stolberg and Ben Gitlow, the last named a renegade of the highest quality, all of them Jewish, have been denounced by the Communist propaganda as anti semites and probably, if the truth were known, honorary emirs of the Arab Stolberg is a scholar and a brisk and stylish writer who used to get crushes and once, in throes over David Dubinsky, of the International Ladies' Garment Workers union, wrote a rapturous biographical toast which he now regrets with the writhing shame of a moonstruck banker in a breach of promise suit Stolberg never was a Communist but was is he says, a radical in his political adolescence, but he knows them all with a sensuous and exhiliarating fury

* * *

Gitlow, of course, is former chief of the Communist party in the United States and the most vehement and convincing confessor of the large American class of apostates His current work, entitled The Whole of Their Lives is a fine chapter for the American white book on the ultimate war with Soviet Russia The story of the party's management of the bonus march against Herbert Hoover in Washington is practically official, and actually news, even after 16 years It was but natural, incidentally that the New York Herald Tribune condemned this book to the attention of Arthur Schlesinger, Jr, of the Harvard clique for politico-literary review Schlesinger is a most reliable fellow for the fixed political motives of the H-T's literary appraisals, being a high-octane New Dealer and an unpinked hero of the conquest of the nazi He served in the O S S but dealt in "research," not personal violence. It was natural, also, that the Herald Tribune would assign him to review John T. Flynn's book, "The Roosevelt Myth," after ignoring it long and praising many lesser and inferior jobs And natural, too, that Schlesinger should "do a job on" Flynn, as they say in the book trade Unable to fault Gitlow's charges, Schlesinger wrote that his feeling against Communism in American life in the '30s and '40s is surely far out of perspective' This is the smear technique which is the weapon of the Herald Tribune's party line Schlesinger had good reason to know whether any work on Communism in the United States is authoritative I feel less confident, however, that he could be trusted to review any anti-Communist or anti-New Deal work with artistic and historical objectivity

* * *

Other objections aside I firmly rejected Lyons invitation to join his society of Red-baiters on the further ground that if it ever should show signs of life we would be invaded and taken over by the Communists themselves The mere fact that the society was by name devoted to red Baiting would not deter the comrades They have filtered into many church organizations whose titles gave them fine deceptive coloration and there was a period when even the congressional committee on un-American activities served the Kremlin faithfully and well Hitlerism was an un-American activity. Communism was its foe By promoting Communism the committee harrassed the nazis. So voila' Why not?

THE STORY

Time, 1880 Place, New Orleans

Louis Durand, 37, a well-to-do bachelor, has been corresponding with Miss Julia Russell, whom he has never seen He has proposed marriage and she has accepted. According to her picture, Miss Russell is dark-haired, strong-featured and no longer young. Durand goes down to the dock to meet the boat that is to bring her from St. Louis. He is dumfounded when an exquisite young blond creature introduces herself as Julia. She explains her little deceit by saying she didn't want him to fall for just a pretty face. Durand is enchanted with her and they are married. Certain things puzzle him, however, during their first days together. Among them is the fact Julia has never opened her trunk. When a letter arrives from her sister chiding her with not writing, he insists she reply, takes her letter to mail himself. Returning from the bank, where he has arranged to let Julia share his account, he finds a letter addressed to him from Julia's sister. It says she has received a communication signed with Julia's name but in a stranger's handwriting. She demands an explanation. Durand rushes home to find his wife gone. Her wardrobe closet is empty.

IT was dark now, the town had dropped into night. The town, the world, his mind, were hanging suspended in bottomless night. It was dark outside in the streets and it was dark in here in the room where he stood.

There was no eye to pierce the darkness where he stood; he was alone, unseen, unguessed-at. He was something motionless standing within a black-lined box. And if it breathed, that was a secret between God and itself. That, and the pain he felt in breathing, and a few other things.

Then at last pale light approached, rising from below, ascending the stairs outside. As it rose, it strengthened, until at last its focus came into view: a lighted lamp dancing restlessly Sarah as she climbed toward the upper floor.

The lamp exploded into a permanent dazzle that filled the doorway, burgeoning in and finding him out.

She halted there and looked at him.

He was like one struck dead. Upright on his feet, but dead. He could see her, for his eyes were on her face He could hear her, for when she whispered half-frightenedly "Mr Lou, what is it? What is it, Mr Lou?", he answered her, he spoke, his voice came.

* * *

"SHE'S not coming back," he whispered in return.

"You been in here all this time like this, without a light?"

"She's not coming back"

"How much longer I'm going to have to wait for supper? I can't keep that chicken much more."

"She's not coming back."

"Mr. Lou, you're not hearing me. You're not heeding."

She ventured on into the room, bringing the lamp with her, and the light eddied and fluxed, before it had settled again. She set it down upon the table.

Then, as if kindled into anger by sight of his wasted grief, as if vindictive with long-delayed revelation, she went to the bureau that had been Julia's. She threw open a drawer of it with such righteous violence that the whole cabinet shook and quivered.

She plunged her hand in, unerringly striking toward a hiding place she knew of from some past discovery. Then held it toward him in speechless portent. Within it was rimmed a dusty cake, a pastille, of cheek rouge.

She threw it down, anathema.

Her hands went up overhead, quivered there aloft, vibrant with doom and malediction. "They's house! They's been a stranger sleeping in your bed!"

* * *

HATLESS, coatless, hair awry, just as the discovery had found him in his room moments before, he was running like someone demented through the quiet, night-lidded streets

At a crossing he spied a carriage ahead. He ran down the roadway after it full tilt, floundered into it and choked out the address of the banker Simms

At the banker's house he rang the bell like fury.

A colored servant led him in, showing an offended mien at his impetuosity.

"He's at supper, sir," she said disapprovingly 'If you'll have the patience to seat yourself just a few minutes and wait till he gets through—"

"No matter," he panted "This can't wait! Ask him to come out here a moment—"

The banker came out into the hall, brow beetling with annoyance, still chewing food and with a napkin still trussed about his collar. When he saw who it was his face cleared.

"Mr. Durand!" he said heartily. "What brings you here at such an hour? Will you come in and join us at table?" Then noting his distracted appearance more closely as he came nearer, "You're all upset— What's the matter, man?"

"My money—" Durand gasped out.

"What is it, Mr. Durand? What of your money?"

"Is it there—? Had it been touched—? When you closed at 3, what was my balance on your ledgers—?"

"I don't understand you, Mr. Durand. No one can touch your money. It's safeguarded No one but yourself and your wife—"

He caught an inkling of something from the agonized expression that had flitted across Durand's face just then.

"You mean—?" he breathed, appalled.

"I have to know— Now, tonight — For the love of heaven, Mr. Simms, do something for me, help me— Don't keep me waiting like this—"

Coin Purse Keeps Bus Fare Handy

This models easy-to-locate coin purse is a doll-sized miniature of a woman's wrist-strap handbag

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

[illegible] for the [illegible] habit of fumbling for carfare is a coin purse that can be located instantly in a handbag

The coin purse that isnt tethered [illegible] a cord can be blamed for most of the fumbling in a handbag [illegible] begins when a bus or trolley pulls to a stop

If your handbag is equipped with a coin purse that eludes your searching fingers until it down Sew a ribbon or a cord to the tiny change purse and attach this link that simplifies search to the lining of your handbag

There are other tricks of making a search for small change less embarrassing to a woman and less irritating to fellow passengers who follow her up the steps of a public conveyance One dependable trick is to carry change in a doll sized handbag carried inside of a large handbag The bulk of a miniature handbag although toy-like in dimensions will make one of these change purses a cinch to find no matter what confusion there is in a bag

You can also of course always use your winter coat pocket as a place for caching away a few nickels and dimes which can be reached more handily in a bus crush than change that has to be extracted from a purse busy drafting a substitute measure for the 1947 federal labor law President Truman has pledged to repeal.

The secretary said in his prepared address that the state labor groups had scored most gains in the four years after the first such conference here in 1933. But since then, he said, "the drive for sound labor legislation has slowed to a walk."

Sees Counter Trend

"Indeed," he said, "a countertrend has developed, of attacks on the rights of organized workers, of diffusion of labor functions among various agencies of the federal and state governments, of successful attempts to weaken the federal and state labor departments through cuts in funds or withholding of increased appropriations.
The energies of labor officials and organized labor have necessarily be diverted to defending their gains rather than to pursuing new goals. You have literally been fighting with your backs to the wall."
Now Tobin added, "the tide of battle has turned."
We may take encouragement, he said, "from the recent rejection by the people of Maine Massachusetts and New Mexico of referenda on anti-closed shop proposals. This is certainly a cheering reversal of the trend in 1946-47, when 34 states passed anti-labor laws
"But by far our greatest encouragement comes from the reaffirmation by the American people just this month of their belief in liberal progressive principles."

God's Covenant With Abraham Reflected in Palestine of Today

(By James M. Watkins)

Nov. 29—Over 3800 years ago God spoke to Abraham, after he had proved his faith by the near sacrifice of his son Isaac, and gave him the substance of an enduring promise.
This included the promise of the possession of the land of Palestine as a rightful heritage, the assembling of his people in that land at some future time: a seed that was to prevail against his enemies and certain natural benefits that were to result from this association and overflow as a blessing to all nations.
To seal this promise between God and Abraham the rite of circumcision was instituted and became a constant fleshly reminder of the covenant bond that existed between God and their nation.
Throughout the history of Israel and especially after each time they failed in their part of the bargain, they were reminded of this covenant. It became the historical basis of their hope.
That the Christian also has a vital stake in this promise is shown by a letter the Apostle Paul wrote to the Church at Galatia, wherein he said, "If ye be Christ's, then are ye Abraham's seed, and heirs according to the promise."
Behind the return of the Jew to Palestine, is the promise of this eternal covenant. From the facts of its ultimate fulfillment the world will sooner or later reap a blessing little anticipated at the present time.
Because of the extensive bonds of the Abrahamic Covenant, the Christian today, has a very vital stake in the things that are happening to the Nation of Israel.

(Details of this question will be the subject of public discussion by the writer at the Church of God, (Abrahamic Faith) 221 W. Morgan St., Wednesday evening at 7:15)

Chuck Bednarik

Bednarik Voted Maxwell Trophy as No. 1 Player

Philadelphia, Nov. 30 (AP)—Charley (Chuck) Bednarik, University of Pennsylvania's All-American center, is the recipient of two new honors.

The Maxwell club yesterday chose the 23-year old Bethlehem, Pa., product as the outstanding football player of the year.

At the same time the Philadelphia Eagles, winner of the National Football league Eastern title, announced they would like him to put his name on a contract when he graduates next spring.

Bednarik is the first lineman to win the Maxwell award. In the past it has gone to such outstanding backs as Doak Walker, Southern Methdist; Bob O'Dell, Penn; Clint Frank, Yale; Charlie Trippi, Georgia; Glen Davis and Felix Blanchard, Army and Nile Kinnick, late Iowa university star.

Tigers Play Hall Redmen in Lidlifter

Another North Central Illinois conference basketball race opens tomorrow night with the defending champion Princeton Tigers performing against Hall Township at Spring Valley.

The somewhat early start (all other league teams engage in non-conference play until Dec. 17) was necessitated by the Bureau county tournament, which runs late in January. Hall and Princeton were originally scheduled to play Jan. 28, date of the tourney's final program.

Heralded in all quarters as the pennant favorite is Sterling's Golden Warriors.

However, one of the closest struggles in recent years is expected to develop. Princeton, DeKalb, Hall Township and possibly Rochelle, stand ready to challenge Sterling for the marbles.

* * *

Princeton has demonstrated surprising signs of power. With its entire championship five and most reserves gone, Coach Al Lewis' Blue and White outfit upset the dope twice last week by handing out beatings to a pair of big time rivals — Kewanee (51-45) and Springfield (42-30).

Sterling, featuring towering Max Baumgardner, the NCIC's George Mikan, whipped East Moline in its debut Friday night, 47-28. The Warriors should be in fine fettle by the time league sniping commences since they engage a series of rugged foes (Freeport, Chicago Tilden Tech, Morrison, Beloit, Wis.) before taking on Rock Falls Dec. 17.

* * *

DeKalb's prospects are bright. Hall Township figures to be as good as last winter when it won seven of nine starts, and Rochelle will do damage with the Plumley brothers, Don and Paul, in the lineup.

Scrapping for second division berths will be Geneseo, Ottawa, Rock Falls, Mendota and Dixon, according to present indications. Of the five, Geneseo seems most likely to make the first division.

Dixon is an enigma. Rock Falls will be decidedly weak, as will Mendota. Ottawa is another question mark.

NOTRE DAME SECOND

Michigan Is Rated Team of the Season

New York, Nov. 30—(AP)—Mighty Michigan is college football's "team of the year."

As a climax to a series of dazzling successes, the Wolverines held the No. 1 place today in the Associated Press' final poll of sports writers and broadcasters.

They beat out their old rival for national honors—Notre Dame—in balloting that gave them 3,448 points to 3,325 for the Irish.

In the final regular season poll of 1947 it was Notre Dame on top with Michigan a close second.

This time, however, the unbeaten and untied Wolverines received 192 first place votes of the 387 casting ballots while the Irish drew only 97.

Notre Dame will try for its 22nd straight victory and its 28th game without a defeat Saturday against Southern California at Los Angeles.

* * *

North Carolina, with only a tie against its record, moved up to third position with 2,281 votes in the final standings as Army, surprisingly tied 21-21 by Navy, fell from third to sixth place with 1,799 ballots.

California held fourth with an even 2,000 and was followed in order by Oklahoma, 1,906, Army, Northwestern, 1,421, Georgia, 879, Oregon, 769, and Southern Methodist, 683.

NORTHERN ILLINOIS' MOST COMPLETE PREP COVERAGE

Bobtales
By BOB FALLSTROM

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fry, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Hess and William Saunders are en route to California, where they'll witness the Notre Dame-Southern California football game at Memorial Stadium, Los Angeles, Saturday.

The Dixon folks will join some 105,000 fans, biggest crowd of the season, at the game, which may be the last of a long series. Notre Dame, of course, rules a prohibitive favorite.

ON RESERVE LIST—Lou Bevilacqua, who piloted Orlando to the Class D Florida State league pennant last season, is listed on the 1949 Washington Senators' reserve list.

A total of 37 players are contained on the roster. Joe Kuhel remains as manager.

TIGERS KNOW HOW TO HANDLE BALL—Lon Scofield, Duke varsity cage coach, watched Princeton trip Springfield Saturday night, in company with JV Coach Sam Owens.

He brought back notations that Princeton plays a pressing game but has little height. The Tiger players know how to handle the ball, however, Scofield says.

Princeton Coach Al Lewis, in a postcard to the writer this week, said: "I look for Dixon to be extra tough this winter. Lonnie Scofield is one of the topflight basketball coaches in Illinois and I remember all the good, big boys that played down here last February."

YANKS AFTER LAZIER—The New York Yankees of the All-America Football conference are said to have approached Murney Lazier, Illinois halfback who has local relatives. The Yanks are also interested in Al Mastrangeli and Paul Patterson of the Illini.

PARIS TO BE POWERHOUSE—Ernie Eveland's Paris Tigers will be a powerhouse this season, Lloyd Swan predicts. The DHS frosh-soph cage coach, a native of Paris, reports that Eveland has a big crop of experienced boys on hand that should lead the school to its best campaign in recent years.

"PAPPY" BARNHART—Don Barnhart, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Barnhart, 124 Boyd street, and assistant football coach at Iowa State Teachers college, Cedar Falls, Ia., became a daddy for the first time yesterday when Mrs. Barnhart presented him with a baby boy weighing over seven pounds.

SHORT SHOTS—Armand Riopelle, originator of the Amvet junior baseball program, is spending his spare time coaching St. Mary's parochial school basketball teams . . . The New York Giants are offering a 1949 tryout to any young, eligible ball player at their spring training base for minor league clubs at Sanford, Fla. According to the Giants, they'll welcome any player who wishes to receive a trial, is a high school graduate, non-eligible Junior American Legion player and is not under contract to any O. B. club. Write Carl Hubbell, field director, New York Giants office, 102 West 42nd street, NYC . . .

Dixon High to Receive Ducats For Tilt Friday

About 230 or 240 tickets (adult and student) are being sent to Dixon high school by West Rockford high as the local consignment of seats for Friday night's game at the Warrior gym.

Principal B. J. Frazer has not received the ducats as yet but will dispose of them in strictly over-the-counter sales, he said yesterday. No telephone orders will be accepted.

Notice of the ticket sale will be published in The Telegraph when available. There will be no chance for Dixon fans to purchase tickets in Rockford, Frazer was informed.

Chicago, Nov. 30—(AP)—John McDonald, Chicago betting commissioner, rates Northwestern and Southern Methodist favorites in the Rose Bowl and Cotton Bowl respectively.

McDonald lists Northwestern a seven-point favorite over California, or 7½ if you take California. Southern Methodist is called a six-point favorite over Oregon.

The Sugar Bowl battle between North Carolina and Oklahoma is given 5 and 6 odds by McDonald, and take your pick.

Five lettermen are expected to form Coach Orval Spurlin's starting Amboy lineup. Amboy won 14 and lost seven last season.

Tommy Campbell Battles Bolanos

Los Angeles, Nov. 30—(AP)—Mexico's Enrique Bolanos risks a third crack at world lightweight champion Ike Williams tonight when he goes into the battle pit at Olympic auditorium against Tommy Campbell, clever Negro from Rock Island, Ill.

Campbell, 26, is a talented boxer but supposedly doesn't pack the dynamite to match Bolanos, the No. 1 challenger for Williams' crown. The contest is scheduled for 12 rounds, with Bolanos' California state title thrown in as a bauble.

Campbell has been boxing out of Los Angeles the past year and is unbeaten in 10 scraps. He is rated seventh in the nation's array of 135-pounders but his backers here think he should be nearer the top.

PERSONNEL SHIFTS

DHS Varsity Coach Lon Scofield has announced several personnel shifts. Floyd Acker, sophomore who earned a varsity letter last season, has been transferred to the frosh-soph squad. Jerry Wakeley, Dick Kelley and Chuck Lester will join the junior varsity.

"Acker has the makings of a valuable player but we want him to play all the time," Scofield said, adding that the same held true for the other boys.

Cedar Falls, Ia., Nov. 30—(Special)—Fullback Earl Page, Dixon, Ill., had the best punting average for the Iowa State Teachers college grid squad this past season, his 26 punts zooming for 909 yards or 35 yards per boot.

Page also tossed 10 completed passes, gaining 78 yards.

The Panthers won seven of 10 games.

Elgin and Moline Highly Rated

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 30—(AP)—Two northern powers are shouldering into the front rank among teams in every section that are potting away at Pinckneyville's state prep basketball crown.

A veteran, skyscraping quintet from Elgin led by six foot, seven inch Bob Peterson at center bolted into prominence by flattening Proviso of Maywood and Maine of Des Plaines in its first two titls.

And Moline's Maroons, not as big but long on experience, figure to be about as tough judging from their opening victory over Hinsdale's potent entry. The starting five is made up of lads who carried Moline's 1948 title bid to the state finals before it was sidetracked by Pinckneyville. Coach Norman Ziebell, who made a fine record at Morton of Cicero, is the Maroon's new pilot.

Elsewhere in the north there's plenty of talent at Thornton of Harvey, LaGrange and East Rockford—all shooting for repeat state tournament trips—as well as at Waukegan, Oak Park and Dundee.

* * *

On the basis of pre-season prospects and early performances, Pekin, Decatur, Hillsboro, Champaign and Paris shape up as strong contenders in midstate. All except Decatur and Paris got to the state meet last March.

Down south, such outfits as Marion, West Frankfort, Collinsville, Anna-Jonesboro and Mt. Vernon are getting handsome build ups. The same goes for Quincy in the western section.

Pinckneyville's defending champions, depending heavily on a promising crop of sophomores, got off on the wrong foot against Nashville but undoubtedly will show more as the season progresses. Most of the Pincks' big scorers are gone.

* * *

Lineups of both Thornton's Flying Clouds and Oak Park's Huskies are stacked with seasoned players. The Huskies doubled the count on York last week after dealing a getaway setback to Dundee.

Dundee recovered and won its next three engagements.

LaGrange, East Rockford and Waukegan are banking more on new blood. Despite the loss of all but two state tourney squad members, East Rockford is off to a fast start with two triumphs, just like Waukegan which still has lanky Bob Mertes, 6-5, at the pivot post. A completely revamped LaGrange five stumbled before Evanston but bounced back with a brace of wins.

Midstate fans will watch Pekin's inaugural bout with Kewanee Friday for a clue as to how much the Chinks are going to miss Herb Gerecke, Chuck Busby and Jay Nelson, starters of last season's team.

In his 25th year at Decatur, Coach Gay Kintner has another tall, experienced bunch that is expected to shake off a narrow loss to Hinsdale and rack up a batch of victories.

Dixon Officials to Conduct Clinic

Rock Falls, Nov. 30—(Special)—Two Dixon officials, Russ Mills and George Covert, will be in charge of a basketball clinic tomorrow night at Rock Falls high school, Coach Lloyd Hinders has announced.

Hinders will run his varsity players through a short scrimmage with the officials pointing out foul infractions and new rules.

The 7:30 p. m. event is open to the public.

Mrs. E. E. Shaw Writes of Europe and Her Observations on Tour

Amsterdam, Holland

My Dear Family.

We were all much taken with Amsterdam, even though I had visited the city on three previous occasions I was just as curious and interested as though it had been my first It is unique for its canals There are 500 and they are from 30 to 40 feet deep Over each canal is an artistic bridge Many boats, both pleasure and commercial, ply back and forth I saw a woman pilot on a freighter which was piled high with lumber In these foreign countries they certainly adhere to "Let the women do the work

The bridges are toll bridges Every boat pays for having the bridge open and a wooden shoe is lowered as the boat goes through The fee or toll is dropped in hauled up and collected by the bridge tender

There are many impressive buildings It is astonishing how the workmen of long ago put together such masonry and with many fine ornaments of rich carving and it is also remarkable that age has not lessened the beauty or charm Wouldn't it be nice if human beings could be that way

Amsterdam claims 800 000 inhabitants They carry on quite an export business and in flower bulbs especially tulips Wood fish and diamonds stones are cut and polished here I went through the factory and saw the process several years ago Our time was too short and I was sorry for it would have been interesting to Ben Ella and Mrs Walgreen We find out from day to day that we cannot do everything We are spending our precious time well The days and evenings are filled to capacity

Recently a great celebration was held commemorating the 50 years reign of Queen Wilhelmina and the coronation of the Queen's daughter, Juliana The ceremony took place in the Palace at The Hague We were sorry to have seen only the remains of the elaborate decorations Stunning designs with thousands of electric bulbs and dozens of golden crowns were to be seen in great numbers at The Hague as well as in Amsterdam and Rotterdam.

Gorgeous flags and streamers, yards in length and width, edged with massive tassles, floated in the breeze.

* * *

Flowers were seen everywhere All the business houses and many private houses celebrated the event and showed their interest by elaborate decorations On every hand the national flag, blue, white and red, and very pretty, was displayed I asked several people "Do you like your Queens?" (meaning mother and daughters) The reply always was 'Yes very very much"

Everyone it would seem is a lover of flowers Everyone has a garden at the front of the house and goodness how they bloom A perfect riot of color All government buildings will have huge urns filled with blooming plants and window boxes are much in order and very noticeable for their beauty There are countless flower stands all over the city and always people men and women, buying some to take home Amsterdam was not damaged by the bombs

We left Amsterdam by motor for Rotterdam over a super highway which goes overhead where there are railroad tracks Thus avoiding dangerous crossings They really look after such things over here, much more than in the states.

On our drive we passed through a beautiful tunnel, all white which is under the river Maas

Rotterdam was badly damaged Hard hit was their harbor and the ships We saw countless buildings laid low One was their fine railroad station

On our way from Amsterdam to Belgium the countryside looked as prosperous as any farms you see in Lee county Such excellent growth The red rooted houses and barns gave a warm and friendly look Great tracts vegetables, all the kind that we grow, looked fine Cows in big numbers were grazing on the luxuriant grass and clover and they looked in prime condition There were sheep pigs chickens and always geese Guess that is where all the feather beds come from

* * *

In so many places you sleep under feathers It is like a pillow case only it is big like a sheet and takes the place of sheet and blanket It does away with all the extra bedding and is lovely, warm and very light Better give our your electric blankets and try this method

We got off the beaten track and visited Scheveningen The Hague by the Sea It is a very gay summer resort with an immense hotel and gardens right on the sea front The grounds had been beautifully decorated for the recent celebration of the Queens and what was left looked very attractive to us On an embankment there were discs the size of a dessert plate attached or hung from a stiff wire stuck in the ground which was a large steep embankment They were bright and glossy and in colors of silver others gold blue green and rust With the flood lights turned on they made a dazzling sight

Every country has its own individuality and customs We feel we are learning something new and something that interests us every day as we move on I made notes of our trip coming down from Amsterdam, so if things seemed mixed up don't mind it too much for everything I write is scratched off in such a hurry not much time for composition At any rate I am trying to tell you what we see and what we are doing

Now back to the farms I said looked so good and they really do but some of their methods Well for instance, they dig potatoes by hand and put them in a gunny sack. Our farmers have potato diggers that do the complete job I saw some tractors but more horses They were great big powerful horses

In the country we saw miles of private hedges beautifully clipped, also rows and double rows of chestnut and beach trees They have a great flare for making the highways attractive

We saw the city of Delft in the distance It would have been nice to have seen the Delph china factory but we can't take in everything You may recall that Blanche Rosbrook and myself were there in 1937 and brought home some Delph souvenirs

It seems as if I had written a lot and said little I hope you will not be worn out with my ravings

Well, my dears, it is good night and love,

Mother

Alleged Hijackers Are Sued for Damages

Chicago, Nov 30—(AP)—Three men under the federal indictment on charges of hijacking a truck and its cargo of butter were sued for damages yesterday

White's Motor Transport Company filed the suit in Federal district court seeking $31,094 from the defendants, Robert Wilberscheid, 25, Renhold Langer 28, and Edwin Lein 31, all of Chicago

The company alleges that one or more of the men stole 24,720 pounds or butter and the truck near Middleton, Wis., July 7. The truck, which was enroute from Harmony, Minn., to Chicago, later was found burned in southeastern Wisconsin

Wilberscheid has pleaded guilty to the theft charges, but Langer and Lein have pleaded innocent. All are scheduled to appear Thursday before Federal Judge John P Barnes. Wilberscheid faces sentence on a charge of unlawfully posessing 6,400 pounds of butter which he dumped on a highway near Peotone, Ill., because it had become rancid

Did you know that scientists don't even know the right time? Capt. Guy Clark of the Naval Observatory reports, "The rate of the earth's rotation in 1929 was faster than it had been in 1909. After 1929 the earth appeared to slow down again". Since time is figured on the basis of the earth's rotation, this throws our clocks all off, as compared to real time As this fluctuation has been going on for centuries, today may be yesterday . . . or tomorrow However, let's not get too excited until they can figure more than 24 hours in a day . . and we can have time to do all the things we want to do

Wife of Idle Man Heiress to Rights

Binghampton N Y, Nov 30—(AP)—It made little difference to Mrs. William Henry Pratt today that her husband is unemployed

The 37-year-old mother of three small children has become an heiress to Illinois oil riches "I guess I am the luckiest girl in the world she said

Ross Bartness of West Frankfort, Ill, an independent oil operator, had engaged a private investigator to locate Mrs Pratt so that she might sign a lease as one of five heirs to mineral rights on a 40-acre tract near Thompsonville, Ill.

The investigator, Joseph Crittenden of Endicott, N Y, found the woman Saturday and she signed the lease

Crittenden said he understood that one well already had been drilled on the property and that Mrs Pratt would receive about $50 a day from it with other wells still to be drilled.

Aged Couple Found Dead in Farm Home

Emington, Ill., Nov. 30—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Lou Alkire, both about 70, were found dead in their farm home southeast of Emington yesterday by three neighbors.

The neighbors, noting that mail remained in the Alkire mailbox for several days, investigated and found Alkire in bed and his wife on the kitchen floor.

Kenneth Essington, Livingston county coroner, said there was no indication of violence and furnishings in the house were undisturbed. He said he found mail dated Nov. 24 in the couple's letterbox.

MacKenzie Says -- John Bull, Meet Your Uncle Sam--

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The British colonial office tells us that 3 per cent of Britons think the United States still is one of the colonies.

I never heard that one before, but am not surprised. Having lived in England many years I encountered some extraordinary notions about my native land and its people.

For one thing the average Briton has no idea of the vast expanse of America. Because he is able to move about his snug little island so easily he is utterly flabbergasted to learn that it is more than a short ride by train from New York to Chicago, or to the west coast, for that matter.

Many folk believe that savage Indians still rove the Plains near Chicago. They also think (perhaps due to our motion picture westerns) that the "wild west" is full of two-gun men who shoot from the hip. Gangsterism is a predominant feature of our life, they believe.

Quite apart from these strange beliefs, the British also find many oddities in our characteristics and habits. They want to know, for example, why Americans talk through their noses (as, of course, some of us do) quite overlooking the fact that the people in some parts of Britain also have a nasal twang. Our designation of a "lift" as an "elevator" passeth understanding.

* * *

Our idea of drinking cold water for breakfast is utterly revolting. I was having the morning meal one time with my good friend, Sir Philip Gibbs, the noted author, and he suffered in silence for some time while I sipped my water. Finally, he exploded:

"Mac, I wish you wouldn't drink that filthy, cold stuff for breakfast. It makes me positively ill."

However, we are wandering from our subject, which has to do with England's mistaken ideas about America. It's all too true that there is widespread misunderstanding and this is due to lack of public interest. England is pretty much self-contained in this particular.

* * *

Of course it is equally true that America has some strange ideas about Britain, though my observation is that we know vastly more about England than she does about us. Apropos of this, Lord Halifax made a neat quip in a recent speech before the English-speaking Union in Britain. He said "the people in the United States are almost as pleased to see that Princess Elizabeth has had a son as we are," adding:

"That new feeling has come about because the American nation has, in the last few years, come to understand that George the Third is really dead."

Talk about one world! What hope, when even two old allies like America and Britain don't know each other!

It strikes this column that it's about time we inaugurated some more international educational courses so that we can get acquainted. Many of the misunderstandings among nations are due to ignorace or to false ideas about the other fellow.

National Guard's Air Arm Not Under Draft

Chicago, Nov. 30—(AP)—Members of the National Guard air arms are exempt from the peacetime draft regardless of when they enlisted for that service.

Col. Leon DeLighter, of the 66th Fighter Group said the judge advocate of the Air Forces had advised that the date of enactment of the draft law was not a controlling factor.

Col. DeLighter said the Guard had understood that its members who enlisted after enactment of the draft act were subject to its provisions.

He added that although the Air Force announcement referred only to members of the Air National Guard he understood the same provisions applied to all other Guardsmen.
